Team History

From 2001-2003, Atlanta was home to the Women's United Soccer Association (WUSA) Atlanta Beat. The Beat had an outstanding three year tenure leading the league in attendance and becoming the only team in the WUSA to reach the playoffs every season. In both 2001 and 2003, the Atlanta Beat appeared in the league's championship game before suspending operations on Sept. 13, 2003.

Nearly six years after that devastating collapse, the highest level women's game finally returned to an American audience with the 2009 launch of Women's Professional Soccer. The WPS inaugural season launched in Spring 2009 with the Boston Breakers, Chicago Red Stars, FC Gold Pride (Bay Area), Los Angeles Sol, St. Louis Athletica, Sky Blue FC (NJ) and Washington Freedom. These seven teams fielded rosters with U.S. Women's National Team players, international superstars, and college standouts.

As the inaugural seven prepared for their first WPS season, Atlanta entrepreneur Fitz Johnson had already taken some immediate steps to secure a WPS Atlanta franchise. In Sept. 2008, he signed a letter of intent for the 2010 WPS team and organized an advisory board called the Center Circle. The Center Circle was a vehicle to guide the development of this franchise through soccer and business leaders from the metropolitan Atlanta area. Many of these individuals had previously worked with the former WUSA franchise and had great knowledge of the challenges a new team would face. "We will learn from past experience and make Atlanta WPS a franchise that all soccer fans in our state will be proud to call their own," said Johnson.

He took the next step on Dec. 11, 2008, at the Georgia Aquarium Ballroom when he launched a season ticket pledge drive and a "Name the Team" contest. On June 18, 2009, the Atlanta Beat became the ninth franchise in WPS with newly appointed General Manager Shawn McGee presiding over the big announcement. The Beat named Gareth O'Sullivan head coach and began hiring its staff in early Sept.

The Beat acquired its first official players through the 2009 WPS Expansion Draft and 2009 International Draft in mid-September before completing its roster with the 2010 WPS Draft in January. Atlanta's new team kicks-off in the world's first women's soccer specific stadium of this magnitude, in the world, on Mother's Day, Sunday May 9, 2010, in Kennesaw, Ga.

O'Sullivan also served as the Tennessee Select Women's State team coach where he twice won the south regional bringing Tennessee to the Donnelly Cup Finals in 2001 & 2003.

Following the success at CBU, O'Sullivan launched the University of West Georgia women's soccer program in 2004 and was named the Gulf Coast Conference Coach of the Year in 2005 for the 3rd time. He then returned to Memphis where he signed a 3 year contract with the Memphis Mojo, a men's professional indoor franchise in the A.I.S.L in March of 2006. When the franchise went bankrupt 6 months later O'Sullivan accepted a 2 year contract in Iceland with Afturelding.

Prior to coaching, O'Sullivan played professionally with Sligo Rovers in the Irish Premier league in 1996 & 1997, Memphis Express and the New Orleans Gamblers in the USISL A League in 1993 & 1994. Coaching Staff

Russ Stroud

Atlanta Beat Goalkeeper Coach

Russ Stroud serves as Goalkeeping Coach for the Atlanta Beat. He joins the staff as an Ivy League graduate with experience training both youth and college keepers.

For the last three years, Stroud has worked alongside Head Coach Rob King at Kennesaw State University. In two of those three seasons, the Owls won regular season titles in the Atlantic-Sun Conference. In 2007, the Owls claimed the A-Sun Conference Championship and earned a bid to the NCAA Tournament.

Stroud's work with the KSU keepers received national recognition in 2006. The keepers earned a fifth overall ranking in both goals against average (0.36) and save percentage (.906) plus a seventh overall ranking for most shutouts (12). Stroud began his fourth season with the Owls in August.

In addition to his time with KSU, Stroud has worked with the Georgia Olympic Development Program (GA ODP) for the last five years as a goalkeeper coach and evaluator.

Stroud is a graduate of Yale University where he played in goal for the Bulldogs and worked with Head Women's Soccer Coach Rudy Meredith. He is a Georgia native who started for the '82 GA ODP team and spent his club career with Atlanta Fire United (formerly West Gwinnett Soccer Club) and the Silverbacks Soccer Club (formerly United Quest).

Off the field, Stroud serves as a Big Brother in Atlanta's Big Brothers Big Sisters program and volunteers with the Yale Alumni Schools Committee as an applicant interviewer.

Stadium

On Tuesday, Dec. 1, 2009, Atlanta Beat Owner T. Fitz Johnson and Kennesaw State University President Dr. Daniel S. Papp announced a partnership to construct the $16.5 million, 8,300-seat soccer stadium in Kennesaw, Georgia. The stadium, located on a 21-acre parcel of land, lies between George Busbee Parkway and the I-575 overpass on Big Shanty Road. It will be home to both the Atlanta Beat Women's Professional Soccer team and the KSU Owls women's soccer program.

Scheduled for completion in May 2010, the stadium will host all Atlanta Beat home games in the inaugural season. The stadium will function primarily for soccer events with sideline, family section, on-field and suite level seating. However, it will also accommodate up to 16,000 as a concert venue. Because the stadium is not built on KSU land, there will be alcohol served at all concerts and Atlanta Beat home games.

HEAD COACH: Jorge Barcellos

Jorge Barcellos joined Saint Louis Athletica on the heels of guiding his Brazilian Olympic Soccer Team to a silver medal. Just by reaching the Olympic finals Barcellos had accomplished something no other Brazilian coach had, making the final of two consecutive major tournaments.

Jorge's professional coaching career began in 2005 when he took the reigns of the Under-17 team at the Brazilian club Japeri. Barcellos would need just a year to become coach of the full men's club side.

The CBF (Confederation Brazil Futebol) had taken note of him by this time. Jorge was invited to be an assistant coach for Brazil's U-20 Women's National Team in 2005. The Brazilian U-20's responded quickly to his influence by winning the 2006 South American Women's U-20 Championship. In 2006 Jorge's career continued to blossom when he moved up from assistant to head coach of the U-20 program. His team responded with a 3rd place finish in the U-20 Women's World Cup held in Russia.

From there the CBF appointed Jorge as head coach of Brazil's Women's National Team. Brazil immediately responded to Jorge with a Silver Medal in the South American Championships held in Argentina. By 2007 the Brazilian Women were on a role. Jorge guided them to a Pan- American Games Championship beating the U.S. in the finals.

Barcellos now had Brazil primed for a run at the World Cup. That year in China Jorge's squad would make it to the final, the first time the Brazilian Women's Team had ever reached a FIFA World Cup Final.

In 2008 Barcellos would guide Brazil right back to the summit. In the Olympic Games his squad reached the Gold Medal Game only to run into a U.S. Team led by his future players Lori Chalupny and Hope Solo.

Jorge Barcellos has coached some of the best female athletes in the world including Marta, Daniela, Formiga and Renata Costa. His influence on the development of the women's game in Brazil and now in the United States will be felt for years to come.

Post-Season Format

WPS Playoffs

Women's Professional Soccer (WPS) has blended traditional soccer culture and American playoff tradition to create a unique post-season format. Approved by the Board of Governors at the NSCAA Convention on January 15, 2009, the playoffs are expected to air in 80 million homes nationally on Fox Sports Net's owned and affiliated regional sports networks.

The playoff format will feature four teams and heavily reward the WPS team finishing atop the 2010 regular season schedule, titling them WPS Regular Season Champions and automatically placing them as host and participant in the WPS Championship, the league's championship game.

Teams finishing the regular season as No. 3 and No. 4 will face each other at No. 3's stadium on September 19 for the WPS First Round. The second-place team in the regular season will receive a bye into the WPS Super Semifinal and host the winner of the First Round on September 22/23. The winner of the Super Semifinal will then travel to the top-seeded team for the WPS Championship on September 26.

In the WPS Playoffs, if the teams are tied at the end of regulation, then two 15-minute overtimes will be played, and if at the end of this overtime there is no decision, then kicks from the penalty spot will be taken, according to the procedure outlined in the FIFA Laws of the Game.

WPS Playoff Format

WPS Sunday on FSC

Women's Professional Soccer and Fox Soccer Channel, America's premier soccer network, have a multi-year partnership to televise a live national Sunday night WPS game of the week, which began in the 2009 inaugural season called "WPS Sunday on FSC".

The agreement covers a minimum of 20 games over the course of the regular season, three playoff games and the WPS All-Star Game presented by the U.S. Coast Guard. One postseason match on September 22/23 and the WPS All-Star Game will be broadcast on Fox Soccer Channel, while one post-season match on September 19 and the WPS Championship on September 26 will reach over 80 million homes on Fox Sports Net's owned and affiliated regional sports networks. Fox Soccer Channel's coverage features WPS pre-game and post-game shows and WPS round-up segments on Fox Soccer Channel, plus content sharing across womensprosoccer.com and foxsoccer.com.

2009 WPS Season in Review

The WPS Inaugural Match between the Los Angeles Sol and Washington Freedom took place March 29, 2009 in front of 14,832 fans at The Home Depot Center in Carson, CA. It was the first women's professional club soccer match played on U.S. soil since the previous women's pro league, the WUSA, shut down more than five years earlier in 2003.

Soccer legend Mia Hamm handed over the official match ball to the referees just before kick-off and a new era in Women's Professional Soccer had officially begun. In the sixth-minute, Sol defender Allison Falk out-jumped Freedom goalkeeper Briana Scurry for the first-ever goal in WPS history. French international Camille Abily finished the scoring in the 87th minute for a 2-0 Sol victory.

Following their opening day victory, the Los Angeles Sol went to the top of the table and never looked back – including an 11-game unbeaten streak in mid-season – easily wrapping up the regular season crown on July 23 to earn the right to host the WPS Championship on August 22.

All six other teams remained in playoff contention through most of July, fighting hard for playoff positions. Saint Louis Athletica clinched second-place in the WPS regular season standings with one week left in the season on August 2, while the final third and fourth playoff positions were determined on the final weekend: the Washington Freedom finished third and Sky Blue FC finished fourth only after the Boston Breakers fell to the Sol in the last game of the regular season.

In the WPS Playoffs, Sky Blue FC – led by the incredible story of player-coach-captain Christie Rampone – won three games on the road in eight days, including 1-0 victories over Saint Louis Athletica and the Los Angeles Sol to capture the inaugural WPS Championship. Just minutes after the WPS Championship, Rampone announced to her team that she had been playing three months pregnant during the playoffs. Heather O'Reilly, whose 17th-minute goal was the game-winner for Sky Blue FC, was selected as MVP of the WPS Championship.
