DAN GILBERT

FOUNDER & CHAIRMAN, QUICKEN LOANS INC. MAJORITY OWNER, CLEVELAND CAVALIERS

Dan Gilbert is Founder and Chairman of Quicken Loans Inc., the nation's largest online lender and a top-five retail home lender in the United States.

Dan is also majority owner of the NBA's Cleveland Cavalier, the American Hockey League's Lake Erie Monsters, the NBA Development League's Canton Charge and the Arena Football League's Cleveland Gladiators, as well as the operator of Quicken Loans Arena ("The Q") in Cleveland, Ohio.

Quicken Loans closed a company-record $29 billion of home loan volume in 2010. The company, which employs over 5,000 people nationally, was named highest in customer satisfaction among all home loan lenders in the United States in a benchmark study by J.D. Power and Associates for 2010 and 2011. Quicken Loans ranked in the Top-30 of FORTUNE Magazine's "100 Best Companies to Work For" the past eight consecutive years, ranking as high as #2. The company also has been recognized as one of Computerworld Magazine's "100 Best Places to Work in Technology" the past seven consecutive years, ranking #1 three of those years.

Quicken Loans moved its headquarters and 3,700 team members to downtown Detroit, where Dan and the company are helping lead a revitalization of the city's urban core. The company plans to move another 1,000 team members from the suburbs to the city by early 2012.

Dan founded Rock Financial in 1985. The company grew into one of the largest independent mortgage lenders in the country and in the late 1990s, launched its Internet strategy and quickly positioned itself as the fastest growing direct mortgage lender on the Internet.

In 2000, software maker Intuit purchased Rock Financial and the company was renamed "Quicken Loans." Dan stayed on as CEO, leading the company as it became the largest online home lender. QuickenLoans.com has gone on to earn "Best of the Web" accolades from Forbes, Money and PC Magazine.

In 2002, Dan led a group and purchased Quicken Loans and its affiliated national title company, Title Source, Inc., back from Intuit. Dan became majority owner of the Cleveland Cavaliers in 2005 and undertook a complete overhaul of the entire organization, installing a new operating philosophy and culture. Shortly after, the Cavaliers won the 2007 Eastern Conference Championship, advancing to the NBA Finals for the first time in the team's 37-year history. The team finished the 2008-2009 regular season with a franchise record and NBA-best 66 wins and followed that in 2009-2010 with another NBA-best 61-win regular season. The Cavaliers were also recognized by Sports Business Journal as one of the top five most well operated franchises in all of professional sports during the 2009 and 2010 seasons.

Dan is a founding partner in private equity group Rockbridge Growth Equity LLC (RBE). The partnership invests in growing businesses in the financial services, Internet technology, consumer-direct marketing, and the sports and entertainment industries. RBE has significant investments in:

- Northcentral University, a premier online educational institution;
 - Protect America, a leading home security company;
 - Ready Financial, a provider of affordable banking products;
 - One on One Marketing, a premier educational institution sales lead provider;
 - MyInsuranceExpert.com, an online life insurance brokerage firm;
 - Connect America, a direct-to-consumer provider of personal emergency response systems, and
 - One Reverse Mortgage, a retail national home lender, specializing in reverse mortgages.
- In addition, Dan is a principal of Detroit Venture Partners (DVP), a new Detroit-focused venture capital firm that funds start-up and early-stage technology companies in Detroit.

Dan is also invested and is involved in the operation of several consumer-based, technology-centered businesses, including:

- Fathead, the leader in sports and entertainment graphics;
- Veritix, a provider of paperless ticketing;
- Xenith, a developer of helmet technology that reduces brain injuries;
- ePrize, the leader in the interactive promotions industry;
- StyleCaster, a community for all things fashion, beauty and music; and
- Quizzle.com, a free on-line personal finance tool.

Dan and a group of partners successfully backed a state-wide referendum to bring first-class casino gaming to Ohio's four largest cities in November 2009. Through a joint venture with Caesars Entertainment, the partnership is developing and will operate unique urban based casinos in both Cleveland and Cincinnati. The large-scale developments will include street level accessible restaurants and retail to engage, promote and encourage gaming patrons and others to visit and support existing cultural, nightlife and sports attractions in the downtown areas where they are located.

Dan launched Bizdom U in Detroit in 2007. The non-profit entrepreneurial academy trains, mentors and finances business builders in their start-up enterprises in the city of Detroit. Bizdom U's mission is to create successful businesses, jobs, growth and wealth in large urban centers. Bizdom U launched a second location, in downtown Cleveland, in 2011.

Dan serves on the boards of the Cleveland Clinic, the Washington D.C.-based Children's National Medical Center (CNMC), and the Children's Tumor Foundation (CTF.org). Dan also serves as Vice Chairman of the non-profit, M-1 RAIL initiative, formed to lead the vision and implementation of light-rail transportation in downtown Detroit.

Dan earned his bachelor's degree from Michigan State University and his law degree from Wayne State University. He has received the "Entrepreneur of the Year" award from Ernst & Young and has been inducted into the Junior Achievement Hall of Fame.

LEN KOMOROSKI

PRESIDENT, CLEVELAND CAVALIERS, QUICKEN LOANS ARENA GOVERNOR, LAKE ERIE MONSTERS

Len Komoroski was named president of the Cavaliers/Quicken Loans Arena organization in April 2003. With more than 30 years of experience in professional sports and entertainment, Komoroski's leadership and business initiative set a solid foundation from which the NBA Cleveland Cavaliers, AHL Lake Erie Monsters and Quicken Loans Arena has flourished into one of the most successfully operated sports and entertainment organizations in the country.

During the 2003-04 season, Komoroski oversaw the restructuring of how the Cavaliers approached the business community and assembled a staff featuring some of the top sports marketing executives in the industry. He directed the transformation of the Cavaliers communications efforts and called for the dramatic changes that led to developing one of the most dynamic game experiences in the NBA. Those efforts, combined with one very special NBA draft and the team's improvement on the court, resulted in one of the top business turnaround stories in NBA history.

For the 2003-04 season, the Cavaliers had the largest year-over-year attendance increase in NBA history, progressing from a league-low of 11,497 per game in 2002-03 to 18,288 in 2003-04 (a 59% increase). Television ratings were up 300% and featured revised broadcast agreements resulting in the largest number of locally-televised games in team history. Radio ratings also increased by more than 200% and local merchandise sales grew by 500%.

Since then, Komoroski has led continued growth and development across the board, bringing the Cavs into the top tier of revenue teams in the NBA.

In 2009-10, the Cavaliers experienced a history-making, record-setting regular season both on and off the court. For the first time in Cavaliers history, supported by the largest season ticket base ever, all 41 home games sold out for an average of 20,562 fans per home game and the season ended with 83 consecutive sold out games (dating back to the 2008-09 season). The streak continued into the 2010-11 season through January 21, 2011 with 102 consecutive sellouts.

Under Komoroski's leadership, the overall business success for the entire organization was recognized when, for two consecutive years in 2009 and 2010, the Cavaliers were named a finalist for Sports Business Journal's prestigious "Sports Team of the Year" award. The award recognizes excellence and innovation in sports franchise business operations. The Cavaliers were also #1 in the NBA and #5 in all of pro sports in the 2009 ESPN The Magazine Rankings of "How Pro Sports Teams Pay Back Their Fans."

Among his many achievements at the helm of the Cavaliers business operations, Komoroski played a pivotal role in developing one of the top cable television relationships in the NBA with Fox Sports Ohio, as well as the entitlement of the Cavaliers new state-of-the-art player development facility – Cleveland Clinic Courts.

In addition, he had a leadership role in the acquisition of the American Hockey League franchise, the Lake Erie Monsters, who played their inaugural season at The Q in 2007-08. In just their third season, the Monsters were named the AHL's 2009-10 Ticket Sales Team of the year after ranking sixth in the league in average attendance. The team saw an increase in almost every ticket sales category, including season tickets, partial plans, groups and overall revenue. The Monsters were also awarded by the AHL for 'exceptional community service efforts' during the 2009-10 season, one of only two teams in the league to receive the honor.

Very active as a community and civic leader, Komoroski is passionate about the future of Cleveland and northeast Ohio. He played a significant role on Dan Gilbert's team in an Ohio constitutional referendum to bring first-class casino gaming to the state's four largest cities, including Cleveland. The Cleveland casino will be developed in a truly urban setting near The Q and will bring a new vitality to the city, while adding to its stature as an entertainment destination. (Cavaliers majority owner Dan Gilbert's Rock Gaming partnership will own and develop the future Cleveland and Cincinnati casinos.)

Komoroski serves on the board of directors of the Cleveland chapters of City Year, the American Red Cross and the United Way, as well as the board of Positively Cleveland. He is an associate of The Presidents' Council and a member of the World Presidents Organization, the 50 Club and the Bluecoats.

Komoroski's diverse and successful background in sports includes:

NFL Philadelphia Eagles (1996-2003). As Senior Vice President and Chief of Business Operations, Komoroski brought many properties in-house, including the Eagles Television Network, which is the largest developer of local programming in the NFL. Under his guidance, the Eagles established the fan-friendly NFL Training Camp, which was the most heavily attended in the league, featuring autograph sessions, interactive games, hospitality and an extraordinary merchandise tent. He also helped broker a record-setting naming rights deal with NovaCare, garnering a reported $66 million for the Eagles training facility, the NovaCare Complex.

Komoroski also played a leadership role in the development of Lincoln Financial Field, the Eagles state-of-the-art stadium. Through his efforts, the Eagles secured a 20-year, $140 million naming rights agreement with Lincoln Financial Group, which at the time was one of the largest such agreements in pro sports history. He and his business group orchestrated the successful sellout of 172 suites, 8,000 club seats, 29,000 Stadium Builder Licenses and a waiting list of over 40,000 for season tickets.

Through the efforts of Komoroski and his team, the Eagles were among the most successful NFL teams in securing long-term seven-figure per annum "Founding Partner" relationships for the new stadium; in addition, they forged many other substantial six-figure per annum agreements. He also completed top-tier industry agreements for Eagles radio and television coverage and concession agreements for Lincoln Financial Field. Behind Komoroski's leadership, the organization secured major soccer events, concerts, Division I college football games and the Army/Navy Game, establishing Lincoln Financial Field as one of the most active stadiums in sports. Through these efforts and events the Eagles have become one of the highest grossing franchises in professional sports.

International Hockey League (IHL) Cleveland Lumberjacks (1994-96). As Senior Vice President and Chief Operating Officer of the International Hockey League's (IHL) Cleveland Lumberjacks, Komoroski immediately transformed the Lumberjacks into a flourishing enterprise. Both attendance and revenues saw sharp increases during Komoroski's time, and the Lumberjacks were one of three profitable IHL teams in 1996.

NBA Minnesota Timberwolves (1988-94). Komoroski's first stint in the NBA was with the Minnesota Timberwolves where he played a major role in the start-up of the team and its arena, the Target Center. While Komoroski was Vice President of Sales and the senior sales and marketing official for the team and arena, the Timberwolves became one of the most financially successful organizations in the league.

Komoroski got his start in sports in 1982 with the Pittsburgh Spirit of the Major Indoor Soccer League, followed by management roles with the Pittsburgh Penguins of the National Hockey League and the Minnesota Strikers of the MISL, and as a regional manager for the Miller Brewing Company's sports marketing arm.

Komoroski is a 1982 cum laude graduate of Duquesne University. He and his wife Denise are the parents of three daughters – Kristin, Kelly, Jamie and one son, Zachary.

NAMING THE TEAM & LOGO HISTORY

NAMING THE CHARGE

Sometimes, a team's colors and uniforms are more than just that. They're the team's identity.

The NFL's Oakland Raiders are often called the "Silver and Black." Baseball fans know that the "Pinstripes" refer to the New York Yankees. Collegiately, the day after the Charge opened their inaugural season, college football fans watched the bitter perennial matchup between the "Scarlet and Grey" and the "Maize and Blue."

The Cavaliers colors are wine and gold. And the Cavaliers are known as "the Wine and Gold."

So when the Cavs' NBA D-League affiliate was seeking its original color scheme, outfitting the team in those regal tones was the easy part. The process of actually naming the team playing in those colors? Not so much.

That process included fan-voting, focus groups and man-on-the-street interviews in Canton.

The Cavs conducted multiple focus groups over a month's time. Supplied with a series of team names – generated internally and from fan voting – members of the marketing department talked with stakeholders in Canton, from community leaders to season ticket-holders. The organization also sent out their Q-TV team to do over 150 man-on-the-street interviews in two different locations simultaneously on two different days.

"Knowing that Cavalier-style names were important, but also knowing that it was really important for the community to find a name that's unique to them, we started to narrow it down," said Tracy Marek, the Cavaliers Chief Marketing Officer. "By the time we were done narrowing it down using the focus groups, Charge was the clear-cut leader."

Although the search for a name was exhaustive, Marek adds that "Charge" was at the front of the pack right out of the gate.

"We had thousands of entries and we read every one of them," said Marek. "We made a master list of names – I'd say between 900 to 1,000 unique names – out of several thousand entries. So, on one side, we just compiled a list of those names. And on a parallel path to that, we made a list of our own names.

"Looking back, 'Charge' was on our very first list."

"We think Charge is not only a great name for the team, but it can also help reflect an attitude and mindset for our entire community," added Mayor Michael Healy.

And so the team was named. Their logo features a swashbuckling figure, brandishing his blade above the Canton Charge wordmark – somewhat of an updated version of the old Cavalier from the '70s logo, escaping the constraints of the roundball and thrusting his sword forward.

With the team name and colors decided, all that remained was for the actual uniforms to be designed.

Utilizing the Cavaliers colors, the Charge unveiled their new threads for the inaugural season. But where the Charge breaks from their parent club in Cleveland is with a unique home "gold" uniform, which reads "Charge" across the chest. Alex Jensen's squad will wear "wine" on the road, with "Canton" emblazoned across the chest.

The symbiotic relationship between the Cleveland Cavaliers and Canton Charge is in its infancy, and team colors are just the beginning of a beautiful partnership. "In (Canton's) case, it's not a little brother – it's part of the organization," concluded Marek. "We're not treating Canton like a separate entity. The Canton team is the Cleveland Cavaliers."

OHSAA playoff games, and I'm always amazed by how many of these local stars experience success at the college and professional level," observed Mayor William Healy. "Former NBA stars, Nick Weatherspoon, Gary Grant, Phil Hubbard, Keith McLeod and Eric Snow all called Canton their hometown, so we are no stranger to professional basketball."

Keith McLeod, inked by the Charge on October 20, has played his share of big games at the Civic Center.

The 32-year-old Canton-McKinley grad eventually moved on to win Player of the Year honors in the M.A.C. with Bowling Green, and played for four NBA teams before returning home.

He recalled a big game against Jackson High at the Civic Center – avenging McKinley's only home loss of the season. And now, some of those same hoops fans will see the Charge's new combo-guard once again.

"Around here, that's all I'm hearing is people saying, 'I can't wait to get to a game,'" beamed McLeod. "I think it's going to be real nice, and I think everybody around here is excited to see what it's going to be like."

The Civic Center, built in 1951, has hosted – and continues to host – more than just basketball. The Canton Invaders played indoor soccer there for 13 years and the Canton Legends indoor football played there for three. Currently, indoor soccer is represented by the Ohio Vortex and indoor football, the Canton Cougars.

Several WWE and ECW smackdowns have been held at the Civic Center, and the venue hosted an MMA event just two nights before the Charge opener.

The 3,942-seat arena has also welcomed some of the biggest names in entertainment and politics. Comedians Jeff Dunham and Eddie Griffin have performed there recently and legends like Bob Dylan have done so in the past. And naturally, the Globetrotters make an annual stop.

Rudy Giuliani and George W. Bush have spoken at the Civic Center, as has Barack Obama – who held a Closing Address Rally eight days before being elected as Commander in Chief.

Of course, before becoming the everyday home of a professional basketball team, the Civic Center appreciated some updates and renovations. And the Cavaliers organization rolled up their sleeves to get them done in short order.

While the Civic Center retains the special character of a proud, experienced basketball venue, several updates and a couple renovations have also readied it for the next phase of its service as home to a new pro team. A new pro-style maple court and extension baskets from Spalding were installed. The overhead lighting grid was also increased and improved. Plus, other lighting effects and physical updates in the seating area were added that will certainly create an updated look and feel to the game environment, while maintaining the great old-school vibe and closeness to the game.

The fan experience at the Civic Center was also considered, and floor seating, court boxes and a VIP area were added.

For a town that's equated with pro football excellence, the city of Canton has welcomed pro hoops to central Stark County with open arms.

And Canton's first pro squad – the NBA D-League's Canton Charge – will appreciate that embrace when they tip off in the inaugural home opener at the Canton Memorial Civic Center.

It's not as if Canton hasn't seen its share of exciting roundball at the Civic Center. For years, fans have watched several future pros – including a few future Cavaliers – cut their teeth in the high school playoffs.

"Every year I visit the Civic Center to watch several Sectional and District OHSAA playoff games, and I'm always amazed by how many of these local stars experience success at the college and professional level," observed Mayor William Healy. "Former NBA stars, Nick Weatherspoon, Gary Grant, Phil Hubbard, Keith McLeod and Eric Snow all called Canton their hometown, so we are no stranger to professional basketball."

Cavaliers Vice President of Facility Operations Antony Bonavita ran the point for most of the improvements.

“We focus on great fan experiences (at Quicken Loans Arena) and we want to create a platform for that in Canton,” said Bonavita. “Similar to our Cavaliers product, we wanted to make sure that people recognize that what you see at The Q – obviously to a different degree – is what you’re going to experience with the Canton Charge.”

The Charge players will also be pleased with the renovations – which were begun on September 19 and wrapped up less than two months later. They’ll see a renovated locker room. And naturally, the shower heads were adjusted for potential 6-9 power forwards.

And beginning on the night of November 25, against the Champion Iowa Energy, the Charge will call the updated Civic Center home for 24 games this season. (They’ll play 24 home, 24 away and two games at the D-League Showcase.)

The Charge will play their first four games – and nine of the first 13 – on the corner of Market and 12th.

The Civic Center is where the Charge unveiled the finished product on November 25, but before they could take the (new) floor, they needed a place to hone their skills.

And in late September, the Cavaliers and Charge settled on the spacious Edgewood Community Center as the team’s official practice and training facility.

“In the Edgewood Community Center we have found the right space and amenities necessary to create a great practice and training environment for the team,” praised Charge General Manager Wes Wilcox. “And we look forward to a great partnership with Edgewood.”

Edgewood Community Center has been open to the public since March 2007, with the goal of enriching the community’s physical, emotional and spiritual health – from children to seniors – through fitness, sports, arts, recreation and wellness. This year, the court was configured into a regulation NBA court.

It had to be stripped down – which was a process lasting almost four weeks. It was also an 84-foot court and had to be extended to 94 feet. Lines were painted, a shot clock installed and coaches offices were retrofitted.

ECC is not only where the squad will practice, it’s where a good portion of it was assembled. On November 3, 2011, the facility hosted the team’s first-ever NBA D-League Draft. Media, Cavaliers and Charge staff – along with fans and season ticket holders – watched the selections unfold in real time. And after his selection in the first round, top pick Tyrell Biggs made his first public appearance in Canton.

Biggs and his new teammates will rock the Civic Center this winter as pro ball comes to Canton.

The Civic Center has seen its share of legends and Hall of Famers walk through the door – from Barry Sanders to Barack Obama.

Canton’s D-League hoopsters are a long way from basketball’s Hall of Fame. But as Confucius said: The journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step.

They take that first step on November 25.

“This is something that the Civic Center can be proud of long-term,” concluded Bonavita. “We certainly appreciated the great partnership with the city and the fans. We said we were going to bring a first-class product to Canton – and I think we’ve done that.”

COMMUNITY RELATIONS

COMMUNITY RELATIONS

The Canton Charge is committed to positively impacting the lives of children and families in the Canton and Stark County areas through a comprehensive program of education, health and wellness, volunteerism and outreach initiatives.

READ TO ACHIEVE

Read to Achieve is a year-round campaign designed to help young people develop a life-long love for reading and encourage adults to read regularly with children. The program reaches elementary and middle school students throughout Stark County through book donations, Reading Time-Outs and the development of Reading Corners.

GREEN WEEK

For a whole week in April, the NBA D-League and its teams will host events and activities designed to generate awareness and educate fans about the importance of protecting and nurturing our environment.

CHARGE UP: GET FIT!

Charge Up: Get FIT! is a comprehensive health and wellness platform that encourages young people to be physically active and maintain well-balanced nutrition. The program reaches elementary, middle and high school students throughout Stark County through fitness appearances, nutrition events and youth basketball clinics.

CHARGE UP: GET FIT! YOUTH BASKETBALL CLINICS

Presented by Aultman Hospital

The Charge, in partnership with Aultman Hospital, will host five (5) youth basketball clinics throughout the season to promote the game of basketball as well as the importance of a healthy and active lifestyle. The clinics will feature instruction by Charge General Manager Wes Wilcox, as well as Charge coaches and players. For more information, please visit www.cantoncharge.com.

WEEK OF SERVICE

For a whole week in November, the NBA D-League and its teams host a variety of hands-on service events in a collaborative effort to give back to children, families, and the community and to increase fan awareness about the importance of service. The NBA D-League Cares Week of Service seeks to expand the impact of volunteer work in existing organizations and encourage individuals to make a difference in their communities.

SEASON OF GIVING

From Thanksgiving through the New Year, the NBA D-League and its teams celebrate the "Season of Giving," a series of charitable visits and events designed to help feed the hungry, lift the spirits of ailing children and spread the joy of the holiday season to the underserved.

COMMUNITY TICKET PROGRAM

Through the generosity of our season ticket holders and corporate partners, the Charge is pleased to provide complimentary tickets to children and families who would not normally be able to attend a Charge home game.
