Their hold on first place strengthened, the Los Angeles Skyhawks turn their attention to helping a charitable cause this week before a final showdown with the Utah Golden Spikers on Saturday night at Birmingham Stadium.

First off, the Skyhawks will meet a team of Southern California College All Stars at Birmingham on Wednesday. The team will turn over the entire gate to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The 8 PM game is co-sponsored by the greater valley 7-11 stores and the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

At halftime, a team of Media All Stars will lock horns with the Los Angeles Playboy Bunnies. The Media All Stars will be led by such stars as Stu Nahan and Ed Arnold (KABC), Jim Hill (KNXT), Frank Mazzeo and Toby Zwickel (Valley News), Fred Robledo and Larry Stewart (Herald) and Joe Buttitta (KGIL).

Other media stars include Andy Klar and Frank Pace (L.A. Sports Mag), Todd Cunningham (Burbank Review), Jerry Price (Simi Enterprise), Jaime Guerra (L.A. Express) and John Gore (News Chronicle).

Then, on Saturday, the Skyhawks can all but wrap-up the ASL's Western Division crown when the Utah Golden Spikers visit Birmingham for an 8 PM contest.

In three previous meetings, the Skyhawks own three straight decisions over their Western Division foes. The most recent was a hard-fought 1-0 victory at Birmingham on July 21.

Heading into the stretch, the Skyhawks led the western pack with a sparkling 10-2-5 mark (85 pts), the best in the pro game. Tacoma is in second with a 8-4-6 record (77 pts) and Utah holds third with a 8-6-2 mark (66 pts).

The Skyhawks have two more home games, Saturday's and August 9 against Cleveland.
