THE FIRST ANNUAL ASL
ALL STAR GAME

SATURDAY, JUNE 23rd, 1979

A Note From ASL Commissioner Bob Cousy

Dear Soccer Fan,

Welcome to the first annual American Soccer League All-Star game. The mere fact that this event is taking place is a prime indication of the growth in popularity of the game of soccer.

Some of the world's greatest players have been assembled at Hofstra Stadium this evening to display their talents in the only professional all-star confrontation in North American soccer.

We are very proud of the important role the American Soccer League has played during the past 46 years in establishing soccer in the United States and are glad to be part of this exciting moment.

We thank all of our fans for your participation in our growth as well as your support of the American Soccer League.

Robert J. Cousy
Commissioner
American Soccer League

The All-Star Game

This is the first annual American Soccer League All-Star game. Although previous years have seen the ASL select first and second team all-star squads, no actual game between the players has ever been played. The game marks the first time 32 of the best soccer players have ever been assembled into two teams, playing on the same pitch.

The players in tonight's match have been carefully selected by league officials, with each club being fairly represented. The combination of world class players with American stars should pave the way for a classic soccer confrontation.

This evening's exhibition is being played at Hofstra Stadium in Uniondale, New York, the home of the defending American Soccer League champions, the New York Apollo.

From the time the New York Cosmos won their first championship playing at Hofstra, to last year's third Apollo title, this New York City suburb has been a hotbed of great soccer.

The American Soccer League takes great pride in presenting this spectacular event, and hopes it is the prelude to many all-star classics to come.

American Soccer League “FIRSTS”

The American Soccer League is proud of its “firsts” in the promotion of soccer in the United States. Here are a few of them.

- The American Soccer League was the first league in the United States to televise scheduled games. This occurred in October, 1952, at Yankee Stadium, New York, over Station WPIX, Channel 11. These A.S.L. games were the first ever staged at Yankee Stadium.
- Indoor soccer, inaugurated by the American Soccer League, first in the United States, at Madison Square Garden, New York, in 1939, again in 1940, and again in the 1950's.
- First night game, International “dream” match in the United States staged by the American Soccer League, June 15, 1948, at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, New York between Liverpool, of England, and Djurgaden, of Sweden; with the English team winning 3-2. This was also the first game staged in the United States by two visiting foreign teams.
- The American Soccer League is the only soccer league in the United States to stage its foreign tour games at major baseball parks. Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, New York; Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium, New York. Other major stadiums have been Soldiers Field, Chicago; Coliseum, Los Angeles; and Connie Mack Stadium, Philadelphia.

- An attendance record of 24,800 was set as far back as 1953 at Randalls Island Stadium, New York, when Liverpool, of England, edged Nuernberg, of German, 4-3. This game was also sponsored by the American Soccer League. (Note: Capacity of Randalls Island Stadium is 22,000 and the gates were closed by order of the police.
- A night attendance record was broken, also at Randalls Island Stadium, in a game sponsored by the American Soccer League, when Milan A.C., of Italy played Santos, of Brazil, on June 11, 1965. An attendance of 24,500 was recorded, and the gates were again closed by police, when the latter estimated there were more than 12,000 automobiles in the parking lots.
- Other attendance records have also been made at Yankee Stadium with over 45,000 fans on hand viewing Pele and his Santos Club in competition against visiting Italian clubs.
