A message from the coach...

The Oklahoma City Slickers professional soccer team introduces the country's fastest growing sport to one of the nation's fastest growing metropolitan areas.

The Slickers have joined the American Soccer League, the oldest soccer league in the United States. The ASL is dedicated to developing young American players, but still fields some of the finest soccer talent from around the world.

The Slickers will have a well-balanced squad of 14 Americans and four non-U.S. citizens which I feel will be in the thick of the ASL championship race.

If you don't already know about soccer, chances are your kids can tell you about it. Youth soccer in the Oklahoma City area is spreading so fast it's difficult to get exact figures on the number of participants. However, best estimates are that some 20,000 youngsters are playing.

The first season of major league sports action is just around the corner and the Oklahoma City Slickers are itchin' to get the show on the field for our most important people...you, the fan!
