Atoms action never lets up!

Welcome to the American Soccer Revolution!

Whether entertaining for business or looking for a great night out with the family, delight in the comfort and convenience of Veterans Stadium, as the new Philadelphia Atoms show how explosive professional soccer can be.

Owner Tom McCloskey, prominent Philadelphia sportsman and builder, has assembled a talented and exciting organization which is ready to take on the best of the North American Soccer League.

Setting the swift pace is Head Coach Al Miller, whose dynamic leadership transformed tiny Hartwick College into one of the nation's collegiate soccer power houses over the last half dozen years. Considered by his peers the top college coach in the country, he has accepted the greater challenge of being the only American to coach in the NASL. Miller has molded a squad of aggressive young players to provide you with action-packed soccer—American style. Skillful, superbly conditioned athletes, exploding onto the field, thrusting themselves into the crunching contact of the most popular sport in the world.

Typical are local All-Americans Bob Rigby of East Stroudsburg State College, the Atoms top pick in the '73 NASL draft, and Stan Startzell, ex-University of Pennsylvania star, acquired from the defending champion New York Cosmos. See them and their smooth-working teammates battle Lamar Hunt's Dallas Tornado, the Miami Toros, Atlanta Apollos, St. Louis Stars, Rochester Lancers, Toronto Metros, and Montreal Olympiques. And you'll also enjoy the color of international competition against teams from Ireland and Mexico. All this and more . . . outstanding pre-game and halftime entertainment. Be with us for "soccer under the stars."

Atoms action never lets up.
