GAME # 5

vs. Houston

GAME NOTES

WITH THE DRILLERS: A very successful home stand, and a little help from their friends have put the Edmonton Drillers in an enviable position for today's meeting with Houston; a win of 8 points or better would give them sole possession of first place in the West Division of the American Conference.

Wins of 4-2 over San Jose, 3-2(SO) over Detroit and 2-0 over Tampa have netted the Drillers 25 out of a maximum 27 points at home, while losses by both California and San Diego last night have set up the potential standings shift today.

GOOSSENS HOT: Jan Goossens continues his hot hand around the net, with a point in every game, and the opening goal in three of the Drillers four games so far. He leads the team with 8 points from 3 goals and 2 assists, followed closely by Edi Kirschner, who is also finding the range, with 2 goals and 3 assists for 7 points.

INJURIES: Midfielder Andre Oostrom is expected to miss the Drillers next three games, to rest a nagging hamstring injury. He is the only Driller not expected to be in uniform today. With the Hurricane, defender Ian Anderson could break his streak of minutes played, as he is hobbled with a sprained ankle. Anderson has not missed one minute of a Hurricane from the opening of the 1979 season.

ON THE ROAD: The Drillers leave Monday afternoon for a two-game road swing through California, and a chance to further enhance their Division standings. They meet the California Surf on Tuesday night at Anaheim Stadium, then finally get together with the San Jose Earthquakes in Spartan Stadium on Thursday night. The club returns home Friday night, and gets a four day rest before meeting the Portland Timbers here on May 21st.
